

DON'T FAIL TO BUY : : TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD.

AND GET A COMPLETE NOVEL FREE : : :

ARK R. 7 P.M. roads were reported.
There were two women in were confident of making the film.

THE WORLD'S SUMMER NOVEL.

MADMOISELLE IXE.

By

LANOE FALCONER.

IT WILL BE PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED.
Tell Your Newsdealer in Advance to Save You a Copy of : :

TO-MORROW'S SUNDAY WORLD.

NEXT WEEK'S THEATRICALS.

Changes at the Casino Roof Garden, Pastor's, and in "Sinbad."

New Features at Eldorado and on Top of Madison Square Garden.

The Casino is surrounded by a halo of fame. Folks say that it is to be turned into a sort of London Alhambra, and it has been reported that the interior of the theatre will shortly be subjected to elaborate alterations. The managers do not discuss the changes. "The Vice-Admiral" runs pleasantly along and business is good. Miss Little Leonor is filling the place made vacant by Emma Hanley. The roof garden is exceedingly popular. The weekly change of programme is great idea, for it keeps the entertainment bright and attractive. The roof garden attractions of next week include Staudt, La Granda, Lillie Durkin, Daly, Mabel Stebbins, Birns and Burns, the Giffords, Prof. Regis Senau and son, the Espous, ballet quartet and M. Edouard's new dance descriptive of the evolution of skirt dancing.

All Tony Pastor's Theatre next week the programme will include Smith, Martin Haley and Sparks, described as "The Big Four," Frank Bush, justly described as "the king of dialect story-tellers"; Little Bonita, Burton, whom Tony Pastor's audiences seem to greatly like; Maggie and Minnie Devere, assisted by T. A. De Vee; Lee and Barton, Will H. Fox, in a musical comedy entitled "Faddy Whiskey"; Frank Riley, the "Soft shoe Dancer"; Marion and Bell, who sing, dance and act, and Williams and Stratton, businesmen, who present a mystery entitled "Mephistopheles's Cabinet." Tony Pastor is expected back from Europe very shortly, and he will bring with him the "cream" of the London Variety stage.

A number of changes will be introduced into "Sinbad" at the Garden Theatre Monday night. Miss Jessie Villiers, who has been playing Marashine, will sing a new comic entitled "I Want to Be Somebody's Baby." John D. Gilbert will replace his brother on "The Nightingale" by a ditty titled "Because He Was Old." There will be new repertoire at the close of the second act, the music of "The Bay of Biscay," and the title old man of the sea will cause to warble "Leggy Cline," and will indulge in a new singing especially for him, and entitled "The Bottom of the Sea." Miss Park and Miss Edith Crask will contribute new solo dances. W. H. Maen's part will be played very soon by Henry Peakes.

Camille Devrient's admirable impersonation of Bettina is the best feature of the revival of "The Masseur" that is now current at Palmer's Theatre. Miss Devrient is in Mississippi, isn't she?" "Very; unless you happen to be color."

sent these novelties from his New Hampshire home. During the past week Miss Caroline Boden has taken the place of Miss Flossie in "The Girl of the Golden West," which is being given three weeks since the role which has been intrusted to Miss Gertrude McCall, who is going to indulge in the luxury of a vacation. The present company will remain in its present location for the time being, as it is already mentioned in these columns. A new organization will sent out to fill its dates on the road. Fay Templeton will play Anna Butcher.

Buford and Hartley, who now seem to be permanently established at Koster & Flaherty's, are reorganizing a "Village Wedding." From Saturday evening until Tuesday for seventy-nine consecutive nights at the State chandelier in Paris, known as "Les Amours de la Reine," will be presented. It is to start at an early date, and the mean time Buford and Hartley will continue to sing their extremely lively version of "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay." The songs and scenes, and other features of the programme will be the Boran Brothers, Dagnen, and the Cells, and the burlesque of "La Boheme."

Poole and Walcott may still be seen at the Eden Musee, where they give their excellent performances with phenomenal vigor. They particularly interest the ladies and children, who love to be artistically mystified. These enter-tainers vary their work each week so that nobody can complain of monotony. Mme. Lili Lilius and her Hungarian orchestra give two concerts each day, and if there were nothing but these at the Eden, the Musee would be well filled, for the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday concerts at Eldorado have become quite popular, and an excellent attraction for the noon hour afternoon and evening by Nahas Franco. The soloists will be Mme. Carola Reiss, who will make her debut at the Eldorado, and the famous violinist, Goldmarie Belibis. Franco, Gounod, Bizet, Flotow and Mendelssohn. Danrosch's orchestra does some admirable work, and it is a pleasure to listen to the songs of the Scotch-American, A. C. in Jersey City. A concert between Cahn and the winner of the competition will be held at the Eldorado.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

Gossip of Ring and Field.

A Mild Suggestion to the New Jersey Athletic Club.

Olympic Club Offers $12,000 for Pritchard and Hall Fight.

For an organization that has so many facilities, natural and artificial, to make it prominent in the athletic world, the New Jersey Athletic Club is behind the age from an athletic standpoint. The Club has an excellent membership list, both as to quality and quantity, beautiful grounds conveniently located, fine buildings, and equipment, in fact about everything necessary to put it right up in the front ranks of athletics along with the New York and Manhattan athletic clubs.

President Noel of the New Orleans Olympic club, when Capt. Wilson, who will be present in this meet, goes to the New Jersey A. C., could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

The Sunday evenings at the Arcadia are also well filled with the music of the best orchestras, and the music is carefully selected and most fascinatingly rendered. Additions are being constantly made to the wax-work collection, and the wax-work is a great attraction.

The English orchestra, instead of playing in the Madison Square Garden Amphitheatre to-morrow night, will ascend to the roof garden of the hotel, and the English club for the benefit of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

Now quite everything has the New Jersey institution, however, for one thing it saddens needs and which it must have before it will ever be rated with the tip-toppers, is a little athlete go. A little outlay of energy and modern ideas will make the New Jersey A. C. could make itself felt in athletic circles. At present there is just a bit too much old fogeyism among the controlling spirits of the Club for the best interests of the Club's athletic success.

There seems to be a mistaken idea among some of them older heads that as long as they have a handsome club-house, a well-stocked reading-room, a well-kept lawn and a pleasant place to bring their friends that the Club is prospering. If that is their idea of a club's success, then the word athletic should be expunged from the title. A successful athletic club must keep its name and the doings of its athletes constantly before the public. Good athletes help an athletic club more than comfortable divans or a cut-glass table service.

earthquake could shake the Baltimore out of its cage.

The following games are scheduled for today:

St. Louis at New York, Cleveland at Philadelphia, Cincinnati at Brooklyn, Louisville at Baltimore, Pittsburgh at Washington.

Outing for the Middle Ages, Aug. 13.

Outing for the Middle Ages, Aug. 13.